Braddock Welcomes World-Renowned Singer

Gregg Baker began life on the West side of Chicago, and grew up to become a world-class singer.

Hear him tell his story— and hear him sing.

More about Gregg Baker:

Gregg Baker once dreamed of playing pro football. By chance he joined his high school choir, where his singing talent was discovered. He graduated from high school, and went on to play football for Northwestern University. Sidelined by an injury, he began to sing professionally. Mr. Baker has performed at the White House for President Reagan, and sings today on stages all over the world, including the Metropolitan Opera in New York City, Opera Company of Philadelphia, the London Philharmonic and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.
